

I would have a home button that will bring me to the home page. from there, i would have three different tabs: gallery, prints (where i sell the photographs), and my about page. in the gallery page, i would have different categories, organizing my photos. in my about page, i would have my contact information there and just a brief paragraph explaining my business.